

The Auspicious Menu

(3 October 2025)

(Please read them all.)

Hi, My all shining stars in the darkest nights, My all alliances, and everyone who loves Me. I have something a little excited to tell you all.

Something a little excited is about My breakfast on 2 October 2025 when was The First Day I sent My Mind to talk to King Charles The Only One Reason why I will surrender to be a princess, and requested Him to let Prince William call Me as fast as They All can but not later than 17 October 2025.

What happened?

On 2 October 2025 in the morning, Daddy Jamnong went to 2nd Bridge Market and bought 4 packs of fish maw soup for everyone in My Home. But Mommy Pinya requested Me “Could You keep 2 packs of the fish maw soup for Your lunch, but eat Chinese steamed dumplings (shumais) which I bought on Monday for Your breakfast before?” So, I had to choose between a big pack of many flavours of Chinese steamed dumplings which had 3 pieces of “har gow” and a pack of 6 pieces of “har gow”.

While I was making a decision, I was not sure that “har gows” would be more delicious than shrimp steamed dumplings, or not. But I decided to choose the pack of 6 pieces of “har gow” for My breakfast even though I had never eaten any “har gows” before. As a result, My breakfast on 2 October 2025 were 6 pieces of “har gow”, one egg tart, and a cup of yoghurt.

While I was eating “har gows”, I thought that they were less delicious than shrimp steamed dumplings. So, I doubted what they made from. So that, I used quick search of Google, and found that “har gow” is a Cantonese menu. And it is an auspicious menu of Chinese people because Chinese people believe that the menu will help an eater to have a prosperity life!

I would like to spotlight the truths again: I never ate any “har gows” before. Although The First Time I ate them was Thursday, Mommy Pinya had bought them on Monday, and I was born on 19 April 1976 when was a Monday. While I was making up My Mind to choose what else I would have for My breakfast on 2 October 2025, I did not know that “har gow” is an auspicious menu of Chinese people, did not know its meanings, and did not think to try eating, but just thought “ทานนี้ก็ได้เพราะทานกับจิ๊กโฉ่วได้” or can be translated in The English Language “I will eat them because they can be eaten with Chinese black vinegar sauce”. Whereas, it is one of the auspicious menus of My ancestors. And although the big pack of many flavours of the Chinese steamed dumplings which had the 3 pieces of “har gow” can be eaten with the Chinese black vinegar sauce, I did not choose, but chose the pack of 6 pieces of “har gow”. A Special Truth is that The First Time I ate them was for My breakfast on 2 October 2025 when was The First Day I sent My Mind to talk to King Charles The Only One Reason why I will surrender to be a princess, and requested Him to let Prince William call Me as fast as They All can but not later than 17 October 2025.

The Father Almighty or Allah told Me on 2 October 2025 in the afternoon
 “Angie, shall We see what will happen?”

(The Father told Me on 3 October 2025 in the morning
 “Angie, I let You choose The Breakfast by Yourself and told You its meanings later”
 ☺☺☺☺.)

So,

Shall we see

“Will luck be happened to Me (and us) as the meanings of the auspicious menu?”?

☺☺☺☺☺☺

Note: It will be the best if a Chinese person creates vegetarian dim sums including vegetarian shumais and vegetarian har gows for Me and all people in The New Better World ☺☺☺☺.
