

You are “lucky”

because

you have your own monarch

(Part 1)

I would like all foreigners who have your own monarch to think carefully. Did you get any expensive lessons from “The devil’s dirty plan”?

One of the expensive lessons from “The devil’s dirty plan”, which I would like all foreigners who have your own monarch to know, is you are “lucky” because you have your own monarch. Why? Could you see some significant truths from “The devil’s dirty plan”? *If an evil gang plans to hurt citizens of a country where has their own monarch, and the evil gang knows “The monarch is ethical”, the evil gang will have hit the monarch to overthrow the monarch before the evil gang will hurt citizens of that country. As all evil gangs knew “Good monarchs knew their own responsibilities”. I mean that good monarchs will not definitely surrender to allow any evil gangs to hurt their beloved citizens.

How about countries where do not have their own monarch? *The evil gang just invites high-level authorities of the government of these countries by offering much profit. If almost all high-level authorities of the government of these countries decide to work with the evil gang together, who can protect and help citizens of these countries?

This is an important reason why I told you “You’re “lucky” because you have your own monarch.” Why do many foreigners who have your own monarch, feel so fun when you knew “The Satans and all evil people are trying to overthrow my own monarch, and my own monarch is in hazardous situation”?
